

Unidentified Barns near Power Plant No. 2

Herrick Archives Number H 242/246

This report gives brief information on five structures found on maps and/or photographs, which have not been identified. All were near Power Plant No. 2 (now Brown Hall Annex, Building 017). Their approximate locations are shown on the map below.

For identification of other buildings shown, see appendix A.

For indexing purposes, addresses have been arbitrarily assigned to these buildings as follows:

H 242 — 215 West Eighteenth Avenue
 H 243 — 207 West Eighteenth Avenue
 H 244 — 219 West Eighteenth Avenue
 H 245 — 230 West Eighteenth Avenue
 H 246 — 1961 Bohannon Road

The following information has been found with respect to these five buildings:

H 242 - This shows most clearly in Photograph X 22924 taken from the front steps of Lord Hall (051) in the fall of 1917. It also appears in Photograph X 22923 taken between 1918 and 1921. It does not appear in Photograph X 7683 taken in the spring of 1922, when the Stadium (032) was under construction. Nor does it appear in a 1914 picture (X 22945).

H 243 - This appears prominently in Photograph X 2235 (1924) as a white building with one window in the east end and two in the south wall. The building was still there in December 1924 when the Robinson addition (075) was completed (X 2724).

H 244 - This appears in Photograph X 2235 (1924). The roof ridge runs north and south, and the roof appears to be metal. In the photograph, the building appears between the stack and the tree to the right.

H 245 - This was a rather dilapidated frame barn pictured in Photograph X 2723, which Professor Bradford's records indicate was taken in 1912. It is hard to determine location from this photograph. An erasure on Map 191-50 (1918) may indicate the location, but this is not certain. This location has been used in the map on the first page of this report.

H 246 - This may be a separate building or it may be the east end of Building 017, which was removed in 1922 to permit the straightening of Bohannon Road.

Maps 190-23, 190-24, 197-09 (all 1909 and 1910) show a detached building, which stood in what is now the center of Bohannon Road.

Other maps of smaller scale made between 1907 and 1910 (Maps 190-14, 190-20, 190-22, and 191-04) show H 246 attached to Building 017.

Photographs X 2233 and 2270, both dated 1909 show the water softener addition to Building 017, but do not permit a clear conclusion as to its attachment to Building 017.

It appears most probable that H 246 was a part of 017 and not a separate building, but a measure of doubt remains.

ADDENDUM NO. 1

Cabinet on June 9, 1925 voted to dispose of two "iron garages" in the rear of the old boiler house (017), and McCracken (4: 192) reports that the better one was moved to a location between the Pavey barn (062) and the railroad. This building at its new location carries the number H 951 in these reports.

Building H 244 appears to be a metal building, and could be the one that was moved and which became H 951.
